

Hotel and Driving Information - Alaska

Getting around Fairbanks

Fairbanks has a relatively small downtown core. If your accommodations are downtown, you more than likely will not need transportation to get to other downtown venues such as the Start Line, Race Headquarters, or the Yukon Quest Banquet. Getting to Meet the Musers would require transportation. However, should you need them, taxis and a local transit system are available.

Getting to and from checkpoints in Alaska

Trucks and cars with 4WD are the only option if you choose to travel between checkpoints in Alaska. The roads are long and difficult in the winter, and the darkness poses additional complications. Furthermore, there are very few places to refuel along the road, and almost no accommodations available to tourists or volunteers. Be prepared to sleep in your car! A more detailed review is available in "Services and Driving Information for Alaskan Checkpoints".

Driving your own vehicle/rental in Alaska

If you are bringing your own vehicle or renting a car, access to the checkpoints is relatively simple, however distances can be long and road conditions can be difficult. Please be cautious on the roads. Please note: vehicle rental agencies are only available in Fairbanks. If you rent a vehicle and are planning to drive to Central or Circle, you must tell the rental agent where you are driving.

We recommend: Enterprise

P: 907-452-4906 Toll Free: 1-800-261-7331

Need a place to stay?

La Quinta Inns and Suites, formerly the Alpine Lodge - Official Hotel - Alaska
is offering our fans and volunteers a special rate!
If you mention you are traveling for the Yukon Quest, you get this reduced rate. When booking online, enter the promo code -
YUKQU3

